FIND MISSING AVIATOR IN WOODS NEAR HECLA

Volunteer Seachers Locate Body of Charles H. Ames.

PLANE WAS WRECKED

The lifeless body of Charles H. Ames, airplane pilot who had been missing for ten days, was found in Little Sugar Valley mountain, a comparatively short distance from the Hecla searchlight station, shortly after 10 o'clock Sunday morning. The body was partly underneath the pilot's wrecked plane. Thirteen bags of valuable mail were found intact, and a few hours later they were loaded onto another plane and sent on to Cleveland.

The finding of Ames and his wrecked plane was accomplished by a group of 24 volunteers from and nearby Hecla Park who organized a drive early Sunday morning. The actual discovery was made by Johnny Dearmitt, 15 years old son of E. J. Dearmitt, of Hecla. The lad was accorded the honor of hurrying to Hecla with the glad tidings which were immediately broadcasted throughout the country. The discovery ended a search that for ten days had extended into virtually every section of the State.

Countless theories and reports were run to earth by the hundreds of searchers, but it was not until the Hecla volunteers took to the mountains that a single rumor or theory was rewarded with anything of a substantial character. The Bellefonte troopers, who with the Boalsburg detachment and other groups from nearby towns, had combed the country in and nearby Clarion for several days. On Saturday night the Bellefonte guardsmen were ordered to return home by motor bus on Sunday and extend their search into the mountains here. The boys arrived in Bellefonte five or six hours after Ames had been found.

Of course, it is a simple matter to say that any search should have been directed into the territory where the object sought was finally located. Nevertheless, the organizing of the drive by the Hecla volunteers was prompted by exactly such a belief, and one adhered to by them from the day Ames was first reported missing. Otherwise, Ames might not have been found for weeks or months longer.

When the plucky pilot was first reported missing, several residents of Hecla Park volunteered the information that late on the night in question they had distinctly heard a plane in that locality. One of the number, who had been aiding a neighbor who was ill, stated that she heard a crash off in the mountains. Dozens of persons at Hecla declared that the fog was so heavy that night that the Hecla searchlight could hardly be seen. Coupled with these statements was the out-standing fact that the locality referred to happened to be directly on the route Ames would follow from Hartleton to Bellefonte.

When the search at dozens of other points had failed to produce results, the Hecla volunteers decided to make their own drive. They were determined to thoroughly scan the sections of mountainous land nearby home. They wanted to run down the theories advanced by their home people that a plane had been heard there on the night that Ames went to his death. Lawrence McMullen organized the group of volunteers, and they conducted their drive in the same manner that hunters scour the mountains for big game. With the volunteers working abreast, and about 100 feet apart, their line extended nearly a half mile. It was this effective, systematic thorough method of searching that finally brought the volunteers to where Ames and his plane were located. It is regarded as extremely unlikely that the wrecked plane would, or could, have been detected by observers in other ships passing at any great distance overhead.

In the group of Hecla volunteers were Mr. McMullen, Charley Workman, Joe Yarnell, Dick Workman, William Harnish, R. M. Hoy, Earl Harter, Joe Weaver, Bruce Beightol, E. J. Dearmitt and his son, Johnny; A. L. Henry, Ford Henry, Melvin Miller, John Dunkle, Jr., Philip Yarnell, George Carson, Emory Miller, A. F. Hockman and Lee Dobson.

In such a matter where nobody actually knows what happened, all manner of explanations are advanced, but it is the consensus of opinion that Ames came to his death, not because he had gotten out of his path and had become lost, but solely because he was flying too low and, unable to see as a result of the heavy fog, crashed into the mountain side. In other words, it is believed that he was not only on his right course but that had he been a few hundred yards higher he would easily have cleared the mountain tops and sailed straight to the Bellefonte field.

It is believed that his first realization that he was crashing into the mountain side was when his plane ripped off tops of trees. The next instant the right wing of his plane and a wheel were clipped off. The plane was moving at such terrific speed that six and eight inch tree tops were mowed down as if they were so much paper. The plane crashed to the ground with such force that the engine block was split in two. With the exception of the cockpit, it was wrecked completely. When it struck the ground it turned over and rested upon one side. The lifeless body of the pilot, with his parachute still strapped to him, was found in the cockpit.

Indicating that Ames had been killed instantly by the fall was the fact that his body was not pinned against the earth by the plane. Had he retained even a small fraction of life he could have dragged himself out. The condition of the body indicated that he had been dead a considerable time. So far as could be learned, no bones were broken. He sustained a deep gash on the forehead. When the plane struck the ground his head was no doubt thrown forward against the instrument board. Just as most persons do when some object suddenly looms up before them, and they unconsciously throw up their hands to protect their faces, so did Ames lift his hands to cover his face when he found his plane dashing through the tree tops. When his body was found his head was resting against his right arm and hand.

The gas tank of the ill fated plane was empty, and speculation was at once rife as to how an explosion had been averted. It is believed that such gas as was in the tank when the accident happened leaked out when the plane turned over and remained in that position for ten days. Air mail officials fully expected that the plane would be burned, and the body of the pilot exhumed in the flames. Ames did not have time to "throw" the engine switches, and in such cases explosion and fire invariably follow. That this did not happen with the Ames plane is regarded by air mail officials as most remarkable.

The body of Ames was taken by motor to Cleveland and there cremated. The ashes will be taken to Jackson, Mich., for interment.

TEACHERS INSTITUTE

Five Day Session Opens in Court House Next Monday.

The Seventy-ninth Teachers Institute of Centre County will open its sessions in the Court House next Monday morning, and continue until Friday noon. Some of the meetings will be held at the High School building, in connection with those at the Court House

The program promises to be especially interesting this year. County Superintendent Etters has secured some very fine instructors.

One of the outstanding features of the institute will be the address on Tuesday afternoon by H. B. Pike, special lecturer at Geissinger Hospital, at Danville, who will address the teachers on the care and development of deficient children.

Another educator of note who will take part in the program is Dr. John E. Cox, of the University of West Virginia.

Miss Lulu Hill, of East St. Louis, has again been secured for the week. Miss Hill needs no introduction to the teachers of Centre County, as she very delightfully entertained them at various sessions last year.

Dr. J. L. Bernard and Miss Erma Grasmuck will represent the State Department of Public Instruction, at Harrisburg.

As has been the custom for several years past, no evening sessions will be held. This enables many of the teachers who live nearby Bellefonte to return home each evening.

Lost in the Woods.

Quite a bit of excitement was created in Bellefonte on Monday morning when it was discovered that Frank Doll, better known as "Pinky," was lost somewhere in the Hecla mountain section, nearby where the wrecked air mail plane had come to earth. Frank had gone to the scene of the wreck on Sunday afternoon with a party of friends and later decided to investigate the beacon light located farther up the mountainside. When starting to retrace his steps from the light he took the wrong trail. It soon became dark and after using all the matches he had Doll decided to sit down and await the dawn. After roaming through the woods for several hours on Monday morning he finally came to a saw mill and following the trail that led from the mill he made his way out of the woods where he met a searching party from Bellefonte.

PORTABLE SAWMILL WEEK AT PENN STATE OCT. 19-23

Novel Event Planned For Farmers and Woodlot Owners.

GIVE PRACTICAL IDEAS

"Portable Sawmill Week" is the rather novel title to a schedule of addresses at State College, beginning Monday and extending to Thursday of next week. Everything possible that relates to portable sawmills and woodlot operations, and of interest particularly to farmers and owners of timberlands, will be discussed by men who have specialized along those lines. The program follows:

MONDAY

TUESDAY

Sawing with electrical power and tractors.

WEDNESDAY

Sawing for grades. Practice in saw filing and fitting. Practice in timber estimating in the woods. Portable sawmills. Care of saws. Electrical power for the small sawmill. Grading portable sawmill lumber. Products of the portable sawmill. How the portable sawmill operator can aid in the practice of forestry.

(Evening)—Moving pictures of logging scenes and manufacture. Service of State College to the people. Sawmill operations in relation to the forest. Sawmills and forest fires. Selling lumber from the portable sawmill, from standpoint of operator, retailer and wholesaler. Needs of the portable sawmil industry.

THURSDAY

The farmer and the portable mill. Portable sawmill lumber, from the standpoint of the consumer. Care of axes and logging tools. Care and operation of gasoline tractors. Belt power transmission. Tractor power for portable sawmills.

BUSH HOMESTEAD SOLD.

Purchased By M. A. Landsay—Three Additional Houses Sold.

M. A. Landsay, proprietor of the Brockerhoff House, on Saturday purchased the Bush homestead, on Spring Street, at public sale. Mr. Landsay has no definite plans as to just what the house will be used for but hopes to fix it up to make it a very attractive place. The purchase price was $15,000.

F. P. Blair purchased the dwelling house adjoining his residence, on Spring Street, from the Bush estate, for $5,000. Nathan Kofman was the buyer for the two house in Brown Row, one at $500 and the other $590.

Forgot His License Card.

The fellow who owns but one pair of pants thinks he is out of luck. He never stops to consider that owning two pairs of pants has its drawbacks. Sheriff Dick Taylor found this out on Tuesday, when a State policman nearby Woodward stopped his car and asked for the necessary driver's license card. Dick reached into his hip pocket. His face broke into a broad grin. He realized that he had changed pants and had forgotten to transfer his driver's license card. Moral—If you must own two pairs of pants, wear both pairs at one time, or the State cops will get you if you don't watch out.

Deer Killed by Auto.

Some time Tuesday night a year old doe was killed on the new State Highway near Julian, by Jerry Hanscom, who lives on the Beaver Mills road. He immediately notified the assistant game warden at Julian who on Wednesday morning got in touch with Game Warden Mosier. The deer was brought to the Eckel & Gettig meat market at Bellefonte and later given to the Centre County hospital.

Fire Nearby Stone Quarries.

The fire department was called out Tuesday shortly after noon to extinguish a blaze at the American Lime & Stone Co. houses located near the plant. The fire was on the roof of the double house occupied by Lewis Mussello and Graffis Shay. The origin of the blaze is not known. The fire was extinguished after the roof had been destroyed.

Escaped Prisoner Captured.

James Edward Bowser, who escaped from Rockview September 19, 1924, was captured at Butler on Tuesday and brought to the Centre County jail. He was originally sentenced from Lawrence county for two and a half to five years.

HOSPITAL SUBSCRIBERS ARE ASKED TO PAY UP

Annual Meeting Reveals Pressing Need of Building Funds.

TRUSTEES RE-ELECTED

The Annual Corporate Meeting of the Centre County Hospital was held in the Court House at Bellefonte, Monday evening, October 12th, at 8.00 P. M.

Secretary, Ralph Mallory, of the Board of Trustees, called the meeting to order and asked for nomination for chairman of the meeting. Professor Arthur H. Sloop was elected to take charge.

Chairman Sloop asked for minutes of the last annual meeting which were read by the Secretary. The Woman's Auxiliary made a report of work done and finances, in the persons of Mrs. Wm. J. Emerick, President of the Auxiliary, and Mrs. Russel R. Blair, Secretary. In the report, much credit was given women of the outlying districts for work done. A vote of appreciation and praise was then extended to the Women's Auxiliary.

Edward R. Owens, Treasurer of the Board, then gave a most complete statement of the finances of the institution, first showing the commendable condition of the General Fund, that is the Hospital operation and maintenance fund, and followed by a report of the Serve Centre Sick Fund which every contributor to the Centre County Hospital should study very seriously.

Treasurer's statement of the General Fund of the Centre County Hospital from June 30th, 1924 to October 1st, 1925:

Balance in Bank	$153.49

Amount paid on New Wing borrowed from Repair Acct.	1138.12
Total	$55010.71

EDWARD R. OWENS.
Treasurer.

It will be noticed by the above report that up to the present time we have received only $54526.93 on the Campaign Pledges and as the proportion allotted to the building of the New Wing was 50% of the total amount of Pledges, we are entitled to only $27263.47, and as we have expended up to the present $28401.58 it was necessary for us to borrow from the amount allotted to remodeling and furnishings fund the sum of $1138.12.

The election of six Trustees to fill the vacancies arising from expiration of the terms of Messrs. George H. Hazel, John Blanchard, William T. Kelly, H. S. Moore and Ralph Mallory, was then taken up by the meeting. Chairman Sloop asked for nominations, whereat the five above names were placed and elected by acclamation, to serve for a period of three years.

The term of William J. Emerick, appointed to complete the year term of W. Fred Reynolds, who resigned during the year, having expired it became necessary to elect a Trustee for this place. William J. Emerick's name was proposed and his election to a term of one year was unanimously voted.

Mr. H. S. Moore, of the Building Committee, made a statement of the work, progress and economy of his committee. After some remarks by Mr. Charles Deitrick, of commendation on the efforts and accomplishments of the Board of Trustees of the past year, the meeting was adjourned.

This was absolutely necessary in order not to hold up the building operations during the good weather when most progress could be made at the least expense. And for the Building Committee to go ahead and finish the New Wing we must have the co-operation of the subscribers.

The last payment according to the pledge cards is due November 1st of this year and we trust that every subscriber who has not paid his pledge in full will arrange to do so on or before November 1st.

The Building Committee as well as the whole Board of Trustees are giving liberally of their time in addition to their subscriptions, without one cent of pay and will complete the New Wing and remodel the present structure at a cost not to exceed the $100,000, although the lowest bid received from contractors when we advertised for bids was upwards of $130,000.

Now in consideration of all of the above, it is up to you, subscribers, to make good your pledges promptly and help complete this good work which is so badly needed in our community.

(Signed): BUILDING COMMITTEE.

COUNTY BANKERS ORGANIZE.

Believe Co-operation Will Prove Helpful Along Many Lines.

Aiming to establish a closer relationship with farmers in particular, and citizens of all trades, occupations and professions, in general, Centre County bankers met at the Court House in Bellefonte on Monday and perfected a permanent organization. It will be known as the Centre County Bankers Association. Meetings will be held at stated times, as well as upon special occasions. Officers chosen were the following:

President—Charles M. McCurdy, president of the First National Bank of Bellefonte.

1st. Vice President—John E. Fryberger, of the First National Bank of Philipsburg.

2nd. Vice President—David F. Kapp, of the First National Bank of State College.

Secretary—L. W. Stover, cashier of the First National Bank of Millheim.

Treasurer—T. C. Jackson, of the Moshannon National Bank of Philipsburg.

N. E. Robb, treasurer of the Bellefonte Trust Company, was temporary chairman. R. C. Blaney, farm bureau agent, gave an interesting talk on the importance of closer relationship between the farmer and the banker. Carroll W. Keller, of the First National Bank of Lock Haven, was another to address the meeting. Mr. Keller's mission was to secure information regarding plans for the new organization in Centre County. A similar organization is proposed for Clinton County, in fact for quite a number of other counties in the State.

One of the first steps to be taken in this county will be to appoint a committee, on which will be a representative of every bank in the county, to co-operate with the extension bureau of the Department of Agriculture at State College.

Extension of credit to farmers, particularly the younger men operating farms who have had limited banking experience, and at the same time formulating what might be termed a clearing-house in the matter of credits, are among the more important things the new association aims to accomplish. One of the bankers attending the meeting explained it this way:

"Each year operation of farms in Centre County is passing more and more into the hands of younger men. Many of these young men not only need but should have credit in some bank or other. It is a not uncommon thing to find that lots of these young men are timid about walking into a bank and asking for credit. We aim to overcome such a state of affairs, because the banks want to handle the business of these young men. Another matter will be a proper supervision of credits. In the past a person properly entitled to receiving, say $3000 bank credit, received that amount in not only one but two or three or more banks. Eventually trouble ensued, not only for the banks but for their respective home communities. Under our plan such a thing will not happen."

Negro Electrocuted.

Edward Stevenson, a negro of Fayette County, was electrocuted at Rockview on Monday morning for the murder of Robert Mason, a deputy constable. Stevenson was shot in the hip when captured and his right leg was paralyzed. He was brought to the death house on a cot and taken to the chair in the same manner. He was attended by Rev. Father O'Hanlon, of State College.

"RICHELIEU" TO OPEN NEXT MONDAY EVENING

Management Announces First List of Moving Pictures.

NEW ORGAN INSTALLED

"The Richelieu," Bellefonte's modern, new theatre, will formally open its doors to the public next Monday evening, October 19th, at 7 o'clock. The initial feature will be the classic production, "The Woman Who Wasn't Wanted."

With the opening of the theatre doors the public will be afforded an opportunity to inspect Bellefonte's new playhouse, the finishing touches for which have been rushed to completion in the last few days. A marvelous revelation awaits those who are familiar only with the busy activities about the exterior of the mammoth building. Everything is in readiness for the opening night, and an elaborate program of pictures is announced by Manager Richelieu for the remainder of the week, as will be found on Page 8 of this newspaper.

The "Richelieu" is one of the finest theatres in the country. Nothing has been slighted and no cost spared to make it the utmost in comfort, and a most pleasant place to enjoy good, clean entertainment, for which this theatre will be noted.

Bellefonte is a beautiful town; it has many things of which we are and should be justly proud, such as the Big Spring, the Aviation Field, etc. These things we take pride in showing our friends and visitors. We now have one more place in which we will have the same pride; a beautiful theatre, modern and comfortable in every respect. Even the largest cities in the country have no better.

The theatre has perfect ventilating, lighting and heating systems, drinking fountain, ladies and gentlemen's rest rooms, 1000 sanitary air cushion chairs, properly inclined floor with seating arrangment laid out in such a way that every seat has full unobstructed view of the screen or stage. The theatre is nicely carpeted, and decorated. It has the finest picture machines and screen, assuring clear bright pictures without eye-strain; emergency electric light plant large enough that shows will continue without stop in case of any interruption of electrical power; $20,000 Wurlitzer Hope Jones Unit orchestral organ, the largest and finest in Central Penna. This type organ is used in the largest and best theatres throughout the world. The Wurlitzer Co. are builders of the largest and finest theatre organs in the world. Words cannot describe the beauty of this organ. It contains all the instruments found in a 40 piece orchestra, with each instrument at the fingertips of the organist, making it possible to have the music fit the picture at all times. Stage is modern, convenient and complete in every detail, and large enough to play any attraction. It is also fully equipped with modern scenery and sets to play any home talent or show not carrying own scenery. In fact, (as above stated there is nothing slighted) Manager Richelieu, has given the best, not only in the theatre but the best in pictures and road shows.

The greatest stars in the greatest pictures will be presented at this theatre. Shubert stage plays will also be presented.

"Al." Emerick Dismissed.

Poor "Al." Emerick. He happens to come from State College. "Al." was chief engineer at the State capitol power plant, just about completing 20 years service. Recently there was a boiler explosion at the power plant, and unfortunately two men were killed. Somebody had to be held responsible. "Al." comes from State College, and had not been appointed to his job by Governor Pinchot, so Pinchot fired him. Home friends of "Al." Emerick are unwilling to believe that the distressing accident was due to inefficiency or carelessness on his part. Investigation revealed that one department had failed to notify another department and that it had neglected to communicate with still another department. Too much red tape on Capitol hill.

Medical Men Meet.

The monthly meeting of the Centre County Medical Society was held in the Court House on Wednesday morning. A paper was read by Dr. David Dale, and a discussion of the subject followed. The usual routine of business was enacted.

To Appoint Bank Receiver.

Judge Dale, in an opinion handed down last Saturday set aside objections raised by counsel and stated that a receiver for the Centre County Bank would be appointed on Friday.

SERVE COTTAGE CHEESE IN MANY DISHES

Making Cottage Cheese for Market—A Farm Woman, Mrs. W. W. Bond of Jackson, Tenn., Who Sells About $13 Worth a Week.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Most people like plain cottage cheese, whether made at home or bought. It is especially pleasing in summer and can be used in a great many ways. It is often eaten, either salted or unsalted, with sugar and cream or whole milk. Rich sweet cream is usually blended with it when it is to be served in this way, but sour cream or melted butter may be used instead.

Flavor Combines Well.

The flavor of cottage cheese combines well with a number of other flavors. Berries, peaches, or fresh fruits served with it are good; also canned fruits, dates, raisins, or other dried fruits, brown sugar, maple sugar, honey, jam, marmalade, or chopped nuts. The European combination of gervais or cream cheese with "bar-le-duc" strawberries or currants can be closely duplicated by creamy cottage cheese and strawberry or currant preserves.

Broken nut meats, chopped pimentos, finely cut green peppers, diced cucumbers, or other crisp vegetables may also be mixed with the cheese to make appetizing combinations, suggests the United States Department of Agriculture. Horseradish, onion juice, parsley, and cottage cheese blend well in flavor. The dry cheese, when made, should be seasoned well, packed into buttered earthenware or enameled dish, chilled and turned out on platter to be served in slices. Ground sage may be used for seasoning, if liked. When put up for sale cottage cheese may be packed in cylindrical boxes made of waxed cardboard.

Especially Fine in Salads.

Cottage cheese lends itself especially well to salads. If enough is used, the salad may be the main dish of the meal. French mayonnaise or boiled dressing go well with cheese salad. The cheese may be formed into balls or slices, molded in small cups, or passed through a pastry tube. A small quantity of finely ground left-over ham or corned beef may be mixed with cottage cheese, mustard used as seasoning, and the whole served on lettuce leaves with dressing. Other foods that combine well with cottage cheese in salads are crisp, fresh vegetables; cooked or canned vegetables; fresh canned dried or preserved fruits, nuts, olives, rice, potatoes. With the last two some highly flavored and bright garnish like beets, pimentos, or green peppers should be used; and celery, cucumbers, green peppers, crisp lettuce, or cabbage may be added to give succulence. Ground raw carrots and onions combine nicely with cottage cheese.

Almost any of the foods that are used ordinarily with cottage cheese, either in serving in plain or in salad, can be combined with it for sandwich filling.

Home Canning Methods for Various Products

The bureau of home economics of the United States Department of Agriculture is frequently asked why the water bath method of processing may be used in the home canning of fruits and tomatoes, whereas nonacid vegetables must be processed under pressure.

The explanation given is that for successful canning the temperature applied should ordinarily be the lowest possible that will insure a safe product. While no growing, or so-called vegetative, bacteria will survive for any length of time at the temperature of boiling water (212 F.), some bacteria are able to go into spore form. These spores are killed only by very long-continued heating at boiling temperature, especially if the fruit or vegetable being canned has juice that is alkaline or only very slightly acid. When the juices are acid, as in fruits and tomatoes, all forms of bacteria are killed more quickly at 212 degrees Fahrenheit, which is the highest temperature possible in the water bath. A water both canner is commonly understood to be any covered vessel of sufficient depth for the jars or cans to be completely immersed while processing, and equipped with a rack or false bottom which permits water to circulate around the jars or cans. A wash boiler frequently answers the purpose in the household.

Corn, peas, beans, and other vegetables that do not have acid juice need to be processed under steam pressure at temperatures higher than 212 degrees Fahrenheit, and for this reason, the steam pressure canner is recommended for canning them.

Coloring and Perfuming Soaps Is Not Hard Task

Various colors may be obtained by using aniline dyes. Dissolve a small quantity of dye in water and add slowly until the proper intensity of color desired is attained. The following are used quite extensively in coloring soaps: Red, rhodamine B., yellow, fluorescein, green, napthol green B.

Various shades, such as orange, chamois, salmon red, can be obtained by mixing the fluorescein and rhodamine B. Your druggist can supply you with these coloring compounds. Saponification of the grease should be nearly complete before adding coloring solution, as an excess of lye will destroy the coloring.

Perfumed soaps are made by the addition of artificial perfumes known as essential oils. The following are suggestions: Lavender, geranium, rosemary, hyacinth, wintergreen, sassafras, cloves, almond and bitter almond, caraway, banana, rose, palmarosa. The perfume is added just before the soap is ready to pour, and worked in by stirring. The quantity to use for a batch of soap will depend on the strength of the perfume and the individual taste. This will vary from a fraction of a dram to several drams. Your druggist can supply you with essential oils.

NOON DINNER FOR A GROWING CHILD

Foods Considered Important for Well-Planned Diet.

Here's a good dinner for a child between the ages of three and ten or for anyone else, for that matter! Egg on toast, greens, milk, bread and butter and rice with jelly—each group of foods considered important for a well-planned diet is represented in this menu, selected especially because of its suitability for a growing child. Other combinations could easily have been chosen. For example, an equally good menu would be a broiled meat cake or a portion of fresh fish, baked or broiled; stewed tomatoes, creamed potatoes and custard with a cookie.

The United States Department of Agriculture believes that simple, clean, wholesome food of the right kind, served to children in proper quantities, cannot be overestimated as a factor in assuring them normal health and sturdy development. A child between three and ten years old is usually well fed if he or she has plenty of milk, bread and other cereal food, an egg or its equivalent in meat or fish once a day, a little butter, a small portion each of carefully prepared fruits and vegetables, with a small amount of sweet food after his appetite for other foods is satisfied. If any one of these, except perhaps the sweet, is omitted his diet is likely to be one-sided.

Meal Well Adapted for a Child.

In the feeding of children too much emphasis is often placed on the foods that they ought not to eat and too little on those that they need. The first thing to do, therefore, in planning a day's food is to arrange three attractive meals that furnish all the needed substances.

Pulp Through a Sieve

To rub apple or any other pulp through a sieve, try a flat-bottomed jam jar. It is far quicker to do it with this than with the spoon that most cooks advise.

Diamond Dick Found After Many Years

Famous Shot Now Practicing Physician.

Norfolk, Neb.—Diamond Dick, noted frontier character, pony express rider and one of the most deadly marksmen the West has ever produced, who quietly dropped out of sight a quarter of a century ago, has just been discovered in Norfolk in the person of Dr. Richard J. Tanner, one of the foremost physicians in Madison county. For more than twenty years Tanner has been practicing medicine in Norfolk and no one even suspected that the physician was Diamond Dick, who used to shoot pennies off the heads of persons just to show what he could do with a gun.

Diamond Dick's identity was made known when he volunteered to take part in a rodeo the local American Legion post was putting on. An intimate friend of Tanner "tipped it off" to some of the committee that the doctor was a dead shot and might be induced to give a "demonstration." Tanner put on an exhibition of shooting that fairly took away the breath of the audience and ended in his acknowledgment that he is the famous Diamond Dick, once known all over America for his shooting.

In his exhibition Tanner used the same two old pearl-handled 45-caliber revolvers and the repeating rifle he carried when he rode pony express to the Black hills through the worst Indian-infested district in the trans-Missouri country.

Draws Salary and Quits.

Diamond Dick was at the height of his career when he dropped out of sight. At that time he was traveling around the country with a circus, giving an exhibition of fancy rifle and pistol shooting. He had been doing this several years. One of his stunts was to shoot a penny off the head of a companion.

One day he drew his salary and quietly vanished.

A month later Richard J. Tanner matriculated at Cotner college, Nebraska. A couple of years later he enrolled at Nebraska Wesleyan. Five or six years later he had won his medical degree and was a full-fledged doctor.

He practiced a year or two in a Kansas town and then came to Norfolk, where he has ever since lived.

Tanner likes to recall the early days among the West's great gun-toters and pioneers. He knew Wild Bill Hickok, California Joe, Calamity Jane, Deadwood Dick, Texas Jack, Buffalo Bill, Pawnee Bill, etc.

He had fought Indians all the way from the Platte to the Belle Fourche and nothing but his wonderful ability to handle his guns and to outride his enemies kept his scalp on top of his head time after time.

Diamond Dick's resurrection was more dramatic than his disappearance. It had been whispered around Norfolk that one of its citizens who had been a crack shot in other days would do some shooting at the rodeo.

The time came and Tanner rode into the arena. He was dressed in his old buckskins.

Somebody threw a glass ball up into the air. Tanner looked at it a moment, threw up his gun and fired. The ball went to pieces.

A trap sent a clay pigeon sailing through the air. Tanner didn't seem to take any aim or to pay much attention, but the clay pigeon went all to pieces following the crack of his rifle.

Two targets came sailing out in different directions. Two sharp cracks of the rifle and both targets were in pieces.

Pits Ace of Spades.

A target board was brought out. Tanner shot rings about it. He cut the heart out of an ace of spades. He fired over his shoulder, using a mirror. He fired left-handed. He fired between his legs. And every time he fired the target showed a bull's-eye.

A friend took an apple, placed it on a stick about three feet long and held it out. Diamond Dick fired just one shot and the apple went to pieces. The friend offered to hold an apple in his hands, but Tanner refused to fire at it.

But in 1890 he used to shoot an apple off a girl's head twice each day.

Finally Tanner's friends stuck a penny into a slit in an apple, stuck the apple on the end of a stick and held it up.

"Crack" went the rifle.

The penny was gone. The apple was intact.

Trapped in Ice Box

Millville, N. J.—Nick Cormoose, sixteen years old, went into the refrigerator of the Royal Confectionery company to get some ice cream, and while he was eating the door swung shut.

More than two hours later he was found unconscious and almost frozen to death. He was soon revived.

Tokyo Lad Is Honored for Great Generosity

Washington.—Genichiro Yamada, a Tokyo boy, is told in a letter by John Barton Payne, chairman of the Red Cross, that he was responsible for "one of the most remarkable instances of self-denial and generosity I ever encountered or heard of."

Yamada, upon receiving his "annual allowance" of $1.50 from his parents, forwarded the entire sum to the American Red Cross to help relief work after the Santa Barbara earthquake, saying he recalled "the great sympathy and kind assistance" from the United States after the similar Tokyo occurrence.

SEEKS VETERAN IN ASYLUMS AND JAILS

Mother Hunts for Son, World War Soldier.

Marquette, Mich.—Traveling about the country visiting penal institutions and asylums, hoping to find some trace of her son, Joe Anderson, World war veteran, who disappeared from Detroit, March 6, 1924, Mrs. Margaret Anderson, sixty-seven, has arrived here.

Her son enlisted when he was not yet sixteen and was assigned to Company K of the One Hundred and Thirty-ninth infantry. He was gassed overseas. Later he was charged with desertion, convicted and sent to Leavenworth prison. Mrs. Anderson walked from her home at Sioux Falls to Washington, where she sought clemency for her son from President Harding. She contended Joe was not responsible for his act because of having been gassed. President Harding paroled him.

After his parole Joe went to work at his trade as machinist. At the end of nine months he suddenly disappeared and the mother has never heard anything of him since.

Mrs. Anderson visited the Ford plants here at L'Anse and the asylum at Newberry. She said her son might be going under the name of John E. Johnson and has always given his address as Stevens Point, Wis. He is over six feet tall, thin and of blond complexion and has a scar on his chest on the left side where he was wounded in the war.

She said she is making her way to Chicago, visiting asylums and industrial centers in hope of finding some trace of her missing son.

Say They Get Gold by Alchemy of Old

French Scientists Give Recipe They Use.

New York.—A few months ago the world was startled by the announcement that Professor Nagaoka in Japan and Professor Miethe in Germany had succeeded in making gold out of mercury. The process was not yet of commercial value, but still the transmutation of the elements so ardently sought by the ancient alchemists had been effected. Now comes the assertion that some alchemists of the old school in France have succeeded in doing the same thing, but this time it is real alchemy.

The French have scorned all modern methods, and do not employ electric discharges or high tension currents. They still follow the recipe of the medieval sorcerers. But, in contrast to their ancient brothers, they are not at all secretive about their work, and have published their procedure in full, so that every one can now go ahead and produce gold in his spare time.

The idea is very simple. Take 125 parts of pure silver, seven parts of bisulphite of arsenic and three parts of sulphide of antimony. Melt this and keep it at a temperature of 1,000 degrees centigrade for some four hours and you will obtain a yellowish metal. This must be melted again, and again ten parts of the arsenic compound should be added very gradually. And again you must keep the temperature at 1,000 degrees centigrade for four hours.

Finally you add ten parts of potassium nitrate, ten parts of ammonium chloride, ten parts of borax and some powdered soap, which is supposed to purify the metal, which will now again take on a white color. Your labors are now finished, and you will be rewarded by finding one-quarter of 1 per cent of gold in the residue.

To prove that it is not a fake, M. Jollivet Castelot, the president of the French Society of Alchemists, has had several chemists of renown repeat the experiment, and declares that all of them have confirmed the results.

The history of the transmutation of one precious metal into another goes back to the Middle Ages, but Francis Bacon is really the man who first put alchemy on a scientific basis in his famous book, "The New Atlantis." Sir Robert Boyle founded his "Invisible College" on that structure, and after several experiences and transmutations this institution became the Royal society (under the reign of Charles II), the first scientific society in Europe.

Germans Fail.

In the meantime, news comes from Germany that three other physicists, Erich Tiede, Arthur Schleede and Frieda Goldschmidt, have repeated the experiments of Miethe without the slightest success. Using chemically pure mercury and subjecting it to the same infusion treatment as did Miethe, they have not been able to find even the smallest traces of gold in it. Also we are informed that Doctor Aston, the world-famous physical chemist of the Cavendish laboratory in Cambridge, England, has decided that if gold is made from mercury it must be heavier than ordinary gold. Unfortunately for the electrical alchemists, their analysis showed that their gold made from mercury was precisely the same as ordinary gold, which is another severe blow for them.

Here's Your Chance to Get a Buffalo

Uncle Sam has about a hundred bull buffaloes to spare, and anyone who wants one for a pet should write to the Department of the Interior. Arno B. Cammeror (right) will examine the application and if it is approved a buffalo with a head like the one above will be sent for the cost of catching and crating—about $85.

The AMERICAN LEGION

(Copy for This Department Supplied by the American Legion News Service.)

FRYLING'S FLAG IS SENT TO BROTHER

Of the many strange incidents of the World war revealed by the light of time, probably none is more unique than the story surrounding the life of the late Corp. G. W. Fryling, American Legionnaires of Philadelphia have discovered.

While in camp at Hancock, Ga., a brother of Fryling's, S. H. Fryling, of Philadelphia, sent a small silk American flag to him, asking him to carry it through the war and upon his return to give it to him as a war token.

On receipt of the flag, Fryling placed it in an envelope and wrote on it: "In case of my death return this to S. H. Fryling, North Marshall street, Philadelphia, Pa."

Corporal Fryling was killed in action in the Argonne, September 26, 1918, while serving with the Twenty-eighth division. Since that time the body was returned but the flag was believed to have been lost.

Recently a letter containing the flag was received by S. H. Fryling from a German lieutenant. The letter read:

"You will be surprised to receive this letter so long after the war. The former owner of the flag, Corp. G. W. Fryling, fell the last of September, during the night while on patrol duty. We took his knapsack containing very important papers and handed them over to army headquarters. We found the envelope containing the flag. I took the flag with the intention of returning it after the war was over, but as I was sent to the hospital myself, and the envelope was mislaid until recently, I did not send it. I was looking over some war relics and found this; therefore I am sending you letter and flag and wish to beg your pardon for its delay. Next day we had to retreat because of a counter-attack by the Americans, and therefore could not reach Mr. Fryling's body.

"Truly yours, A. Scheiffele, Breich str. 15, Geislingen, Wurttemberg, Germany, Lieutenant. D. R."

May Reclaim Charter if Mine Resumes Operation

They don't "found" towns in Utah; they find a likely looking copper or coal vein, mine it for a season or two, and the town just sort of happens as an accessory to the mine. When the vein peters out a motley hodge-podge of wooden shacks crumble and tumble down the mine shaft and another "town" has faded from the bronze landscape of the Utah hills.

That accounts for the message that department headquarters of the American Legion received from Mohriand, Utah, recently, which read: "All records and the charter of Mohriand post of the Legion are being forwarded to headquarters. All affairs of the post have been settled; we ask that the charter be suspended without prejudice. In the event the mine resumes operations the post will surely become active again. Address no reply to Mohriand; the post office has closed shop."

Americans' Graves in France Not Disturbed

A report that the cemeteries of France where World war veterans are buried are being desecrated in the interest of science was recently investigated by the department of New York, American Legion.

A New York newspaper printed an article to the effect that the remains of men of the American and allied armies were being dug up to meet an increased demand for scientific and demonstrative purposes.

E. E. David, executive assistant in the division of cemeteries of the United States army, commenting on the report, said: "The American army has been most zealous in seeking out the bodies of American soldiers, and our six cemeteries in France, one in Belgium and one in England, are rigidly supervised by Col. W. W. Smith and a force attached to the quartermaster's division. It is impossible for American graves in any of these cemeteries to be disturbed."

Get Proper Papers

All World war veterans who have not their discharge papers in their possession are urged by Chairman Watson B. Miller of the American Legion national rehabilitation committee to get from proper government departments certificates in lieu of the discharge.

Much difficulty is being experienced by veterans, Mr. Miller pointed out, who do not have their discharges. Definite proof of service is required in making application for hospitalization under the World War Veterans' act. It is also needed in getting permission to bury a veteran in a national cemetery.

Convinced

"Are you getting anything out of that course in salesmanship?"

"Not much. I'm afraid I'll never be one-tenth as good a salesman as the man who sold me the course."—American Legion Weekly.

Nation Saves by Using Radio

Army and Navy Stations Carry Bulk of Government's Messages.

Washington.—Development of radio has limited nearly all of the government's communication activities from the telegraph wires into the air.

The maze of telegraph wires formerly used, largely has been supplanted by a network of radio stations manned by army and navy personnel and transmitting messages not only of the two military arms but of other govenment departments as well.

About two million words in government messages are broadcast monthly from Washington through the army and navy radio and wireless stations. Until recent years, about half of the government's messages were dispatched over commercial lines and army and navy officials pointed out recently that more efficient use of radio was saving the government hundreds of thousands of dollars annually.

Would Be Highly Valuable in War.

Radio not only has expedited and effected economy in communication, but its wide use for government purposes has served to train a large force and erect a system that would be highly valuable in event of war.

The navy sends and receives an average of more than one million words monthly by radio, its own leased land wires, and through commercial companies. Of this, little more than one-fifth is now transmitted by private concerns, with radio handling the larger part, and the navy thus has been enabled to dispense with a vast network of leased land wires used during the war.

Not only does it dispatch messages to its ships at sea and to distant ports, but it sends many across the seas for the army and other government branches. The army likewise handles many inland communications for the navy.

Development during the last year of experiments, with radio frequency, or short wave length sending has considerably increased the navy's capacity for handling messages, the short wave length having been found to leap across silent "areas in the ether and penetrate static readily." When the MacMillan arctic expedition was at its most northern point, the navy's Bellevue station was able to reach the expedition during midday, when static ordinarily is very intense, with messages sent on a short wave, when the longer waves carried only short distances.

Army Has Sixty Radio Stations.

The Bellevue station daily sends dispatches to London, Paris, San Francisco, San Diego, the Canal Zone and to ships at sea, all on the short wave length. When the battle fleet was in the Antipodes recently two-way communication was readily established with Washington.

In place of its telegraph wires of a few years ago, the War department has established a net of sixty radio stations. One major station is located in each of the nine army corps areas, with two trans-continent relay stations at Fort Leavenworth, Kan., and Fort Douglas, Utah, and another major station in Washington. Each corps area has its own system of stations connecting the distant posts with headquarters, while 22 others are established in Alaska alone.

The War department undertook its first great expansion of the use of radio for departmental business at the beginning of the fiscal year 1923, and transmitted through its stations that year less than 4,000,000 words. In the fiscal year, 1925, ending last July, nearly 8,500,000 words were transmitted.

Summer Ice 3 Feet Thick Forms in Adirondacks

Saranac Lake, N. Y.—Water in the crevices of Indian pass has formed ice more than two feet thick, according to Albert Tebeau, forest ranger.

Tebeau made a detailed report of this unusual condition when he visited the offices of District Forest Ranger James H. Hopkins here.

The discovery, according to Tebeau, was made when he was with a party of workmen repairing the telephone lines at a fire-observation station near Indian pass. A large object, at first believed to be a stone, fell near the workmen. When the moss was removed it was found to be ice. Tebeau then scaled the rocks and found ice in almost every crevice. Some of it, he declared, was three feet thick. Conservation officials say this is the first time ice has formed in the Adirondacks in July.

Thousands of Diseased Cattle Shot in Trenches

Houston, Texas.—Trench warfare on the foot-and-mouth disease began in earnest with the slaughter and burial immediately of some 500 head of "contact cattle" on the infected range, near South Houston. Several thousand head of cattle which have been grazing on the range, where infected cattle have been discovered by government and state officials in charge of the fight on the epizootic, are doomed to die. Three large ditching machines are in operation and another is being assembled to dig trenches for the doomed cattle on a range covering several thousand acres. The cattle slaughtered and buried were driven into the trenches and shot down by expert marksmen. This method will be employed throughout the fight.

Wealthy Wisconsin Man Joins Exploring Party

Bradley Tyrell, a wealthy Wisconsin manufacturer, has gone to Africa where he will join the joint exploratory party on which Alonzo Pond of the Logan Sahara expedition of Beloit college and Count Byron de Prohok of the Franco-American African expedition are combining forces. The explorers intend to penetrate into the hitherto unexplored part of the desert and to climb Mt. Iliaman, 12,000 feet, which has never been scaled.

Dust Explosions Take Heavy Toll

Forty-Five Lives Lost and $3,000,000 in Property Destroyed.

New York.—Forty-five lives were lost, twenty-eight employees were injured, and approximately $3,000,000 worth of property was destroyed in dust explosions and resulting fires in the United States during the past year, it is disclosed by statistics compiled by Hylton R. Brown of the United States bureau of chemistry, Washington, and made public through the American Chemical society.

There are in this country, according to the summary, 22,000 establishments manufacturing dusty products, such as starch, feed, cocoa, spice, and sugar, or producing dust during the manufacture of woodenware, aluminum ware, corks, etc.

The dust explosion hazard present in these plants exists also in smaller degree, it is said, in the thousands of warehouses, transfer stations and similar establishments where large quantities of the dust or dusty material are handled either in bulk or package form.

Last year's explosions and fires, it was reported, occurred in starch manufacturing plants, wood-working establishments, leather-grinding mills, feed-mixing plants and grain elevators—industries in which, it is said, the dust explosion hazard is generally recognized.

Preventive Measures.

The bureau has developed preventive measures for hazards common to all plants, but it warns that individual hazards must be thoroughly studied.

"Investigations by the bureau of chemistry of the United States Department of Agriculture have shown that practically all combustible dusts and some dusts not generally considered combustible will," Mr. Brown asserted, "explode with violence under favorable conditions, when mixed with the proper proportion of air and ignited by a flame, spark, or other source of ignition.

"No record of a spontaneous dust explosion has ever been obtained. A spark, flame, or other source of ignition must be present to ignite the dust. The conditions necessary for an explosion are sufficiently common and occur often enough in manufacturing plants to indicate to the management the necessity of giving serious consideration to the dust explosion hazard.

"Dust explosions have occurred in many industries and under different conditions. Manufacturers, however, do not yet realize the extent of this hazard and the importance of adopting preventive measures.

"Some feel that a plant manufacturing dusty material is immune from dust explosions simply because in their experience no dust explosions have ever occurred in their particular industry. Such a feeling of safety is dangerous if for no other reason than because it breeds carelessness.

"It seems to be generally known that open lights, electric arcs, matches, lighted cigars, cigarettes, pipes, sparks of static electricity and the breaking of lighted electric lamps are sources of ignition sufficient to start a dust explosion when enough dust to form an explosive mixture is present in the air.

In Three Groups.

"Methods of eliminating or reducing the possibility of having present at the same time the two requisites of a dust explosion—a cloud of dust and a source of ignition—may not be so well known.

"Plants where consideration should be given to the elimination of the dust explosion hazard may be classified in three groups: Plants handling dusty or powdered material in pack form, plants handling such material in loose form, and plants manufacturing or producing explosive dust."

It has been definitely determined that static sparks can ignite dust. Static electricity is given as a possible cause of an increasing number of explosions. Metallic sparks, friction fires, and hot bearings are called important mechanical causes of dust explosions.

To reduce the dust explosion hazard in dusty industries, the bureau urges measures to prevent the formation of dust clouds, elimination of all sources of ignition, and maintenance of an atmosphere of reduced oxygen content incapable of supporting a dust explosion where it is impossible either to prevent the formation of dust clouds or to eliminate the sources of ignition effectively.

STAMPS GIVE KNOWLEDGE OF MANY HISTORIC OCCASIONS

An Effective Means of Stimulating Loyalty and Patriotism, Says Postmaster General.

Washington.—"Postage stamps are an effective means of stimulating loyalty and patriotism. Everybody who posts or receives a communication through the United States mail receives, nolens volens, a transitory lesson in the history of the nation," says Harry S. New, postmaster general, in an article in School Life, a publication of the Interior department, bureau of education.

"In general the designs upon the regular issues have included the representation of the head of one of the Presidents, but in the past fifty years the custom has grown of commemorating important historical events by special issues," states the postmaster general. "The novel appearance of the new stamps immediately arrests the attention of the user, and inquiry into its meaning naturally follows. The result is a valuable lesson in history which few escape, even those of limited education.

Thirteen special series of adhesive stamps have been employed to impress historical occasions upon the popular mind," Postmaster General New continues. "They have carried to thousands their first knowledge of some of the events which were thus celebrated, and they have led millions of our people to a wider and more intelligent understanding of the circumstances that have contributed to our national existence."

Modern Rome to Build Two Big Public Baths

Rome.—Public baths, which constituted part of the greatness of ancient Rome, are beginning to come into vogue again with the ever-growing interest in athletics on the part of Italian youth.

Inspired partly by the grandiose ruins of such ancient structures as the baths of Caracalla and Diocletian and partly by the practicability of modern gymnasiums, Italian architects have drawn up plans for the erection of two massive structures which are destined to serve the Roman public not only as baths but also as athletic and sport centers.

One of these is to be constructed in the Piazza Risorgimento, in the center of one of Rome's most rapidly growing residential sections.

Birds Assault Car

Newton, N. J.—A flock of more than 200 English sparrows suddenly attacked the sedan driven by Frank Stewart of Hackensack as he was driving his family along the Sparta road. Stewart had to stop the car and shield his head and face from the wings of the birds.

Scores of the sparrows beat themselves to death against the car.

GIVE PIGS A START—Watch those fall pigs and get them well started before cold weather comes. If a pig is not growing nicely before winter he will not flourish during the cold weather.

GATHER THE APPLES—Do not pile apples under the trees. Sort them as soon as picked and store in a cool place off the ground. Handle carefully so as not to bruise the fruit. Every injury gives an opportunity for the entrance of rots and diseases, mortal enemies of the apple as far as keeping qualities are concerned.

DO NOT BE DECEIVED—What are sometimes thought to be red spiders are really red spider eggs. These will stay on the trees all winter and hatch as soon as the buds open in the spring. It pays to get busy then before the damage begins to show on the leaves. The early delayed dormant spray is the first treatment and this is followed by the regular sprays throughout the summer.

Penn State Faces Big Games.

With the big early season clash with Georgia Tech now out of the way, Penn State football warriors are looking ahead to the contest with Michigan State College on Oct. 24. A game with Marietta College this week is expected to give the Lions a breathing spell before starting their final drive through late October and November games. Starting with Michigan State, Penn State faces stiff opponents in order, among others, Syracuse, Notre Dame, West Virginia and the University of Pittsburgh. Keen interest centers in the two big home games with Michigan and Notre Dame, for both teams registered victories over Penn State when they played on New Beaver Field a dozen years ago. For the Michigan game Penn State students will observe "Pennsylvania Day," a traditional Fall social holiday, and the Notre Dame contest on November 7 will be the occasion for the annual Alumni Homecoming celebration. The Nittany eleven has been developing steadily but will be hard pushed to come through the remaining games with a clean slate.

Club Members Pick Penn State.

Boys and girls' club work has touched the lives of 54 members of this year's freshmen class at the Pennsylvania State College. Of the 978 new students five and one-half per cent indicate that they have come into contact with the junior agricultural extension work of the college. Twenty-seven stated in answer to a questionaire that they had been club members, 40 had been in county judging contests, and 25 had attended Young Farmers' Week at State. Answering as to whether any of these activities had influenced their choice of Penn State as their college home, 10 specified club work, four mentioned judging contests, and six gave Young Farmers' Week the credit for attracting them to Penn State. Last year 73, or nearly seven per cent of the 1150 freshmen enrolled, indicated that they had been in contact with boys' and girls' club work before going to college. In the fall of 1923 only 45 of the freshmen class had enjoyed the experiences of engaging in junior extension activities.

REMOVE POOR TREES.

Farm Bureau Says Every Woodlot Owner is Concerned.

Nearly every Centre County woodlot has trees in it which should be cut, besides those already dead. A green or living tree which should be removed does much more to interfere with the annual growth of timber in the woodlot than a dead one. A dead tree should be removed in order that the wood in it can be kept from decaying, but its removal does not stimulate the growth of its neighbors. The first trees to be removed in thinning are those which have wide spreading crowns and short scrubby trunks. These trees shade many times their share of the woodlot and crowd out the young seedlings which will make real timber in the future. It is a wise move when you cannot use such trees for fuel or for marketable product, to simply kill them by girdling and let them fall by decay. A dead tree never injuries the growth of others near it.

The second class of trees to cut includes those with defective trunks, where the agencies of decay will affect the annual growth. Rotten wood is never usable for any purpose.

Inherently slow growing trees compose the third group which should be removed. Some of them are dogwood, beech, yellow birch, rock oak, and on some dry sites, white oak. These trees fall down when it comes to producing wood in volume. However, where nothing else but these are on the ground, leave the straightest and tallest specimens.

Where trees are growing up in dense stands and are beginning to die out because of extensive competition, it is a good practice to thin them so that the crowns will have three or four feet of clearance; take out the mishapen, the defective and the slower growing species in order to liberate those that are left.

By following the above directions the woodlot owner will get a return immediately in either fuel wood or marketable timber, and will improve rather than injure his future timber returns. C. R. Bashore, of Bethel community, Berks county, has averaged not less than $50. net per acre for the wood he has cut in improving his stand. The growth in many cases can be doubled, which means that marketable timber of better quality can be produced in much less time. It is possible to produce at least one cord of wood per acre each year by thinning as suggested.

OVER THE COUNTY

A second car load of potatoes was shipped from Centre Hall last week by W. R. Winegardner, of Milroy. He is advertising for a third car load.

What is known as the Samuel Condo home, at Rocktown, one-half mile west of Rebersburg, was destroyed by fire last week. The house was vacant. It was located close to the farm house of William Hubler. The farm house was saved from the flames after much effort on the part of those who gathered to give aid.

While hulling clover recently in a field adjacent to the Woodward cemetery, Orvis Orndorf's team decided to leave by the shortest possible route. The horses were hitched to a wagon when they started, but after they had overturned several tombstones in the cemetery the wagon was left behind. They were caught shortly after leaping over the cemetery fence.

Monday morning of last week, as Miss Mary Swartz, of Madisonburg, in the Penns Valley Hose Mill truck, was crossing the diamond in Millheim, a stranger in a Star sedan was coming west on Main Street, traveling at a lively rate of speed and in the middle of the road. He saw that a collision was inevitable and turned his car to the side, but struck the truck knocking it to the curb. The cars were both badly damaged.

Thursday night of last week, about midnight, a pedestrian passing G. W. Frankenberger's saw mill, three miles west of Centre Hall, noticed that something was burning and upon investigating found it to be the slab pile at the mill. He promptly called neighbors who rendered valuable assistance in extinguishing the flames. F. M. Frankenberger and F. M. Hartman were asleep in the cabin and the commotion awakened them. The mill structure was on fire several times. The blaze was of unknown origin, and had probably started earlier in the day.

One day last week the R. E. Stover farm, in Penn township, was the scene of a spectacular fire. Paul Auman and Sam Huston, who are employed by Mr. Stover, were engaged in cleaning the vines off a potato patch hauling them to another field to be burned. They had a goodsized fire going when endeavoring to unload some vines on the fire, they backed too close to the flames and the wagon, vines and all caught fire. Mr. Huston was the driver and he immediately drove the "fiery chariot" to where water could be secured. The wagon was badly damaged, having a wheel, the box and coupling pole burned to a cinder.

COMMUNITY NURSE REPORT

Analysis of Work Done During Month of September.

What was formerly the Red Cross nursing service but is now known as the Bellefonte community nursing service, was resumed September 1st with Miss Anna McCauley, of Fort Royal, Va., as nurse. She reports for September the following:

Nursing care visits, 8; instruction visits, 76. These were mostly followed up from previous medical examination in schools.

Miscellaneous visits, 7; visits to schools, 44; total number of visits, 135; approximate number of hours in office, 36.

Expenses for the month were: salary of nurse, $150; office supplies, $4.48; fees collected, $3

Miss McCauley will hold a baby clinic for colored children of pre school age the last Friday of every month in the W. C. T. U. room, Petriken Hall, from 2 to 4 P. M., with Dr. J. L. Seibert in charge. Mrs. Arthur Foreman is chairman of this committee and will see that every child of her race is brought to the clinic.

Lost to Syracuse Fresh.

Bellefonte Academy was defeated by the Syracuse Freshmen at Syracuse last Saturday by the score of 6-0. The defeat was not altogether unexpected because Coach Snavely had witnessed the Syracuse lads' victory over Cortland, N. Y., Normal on October 3rd and came home with the report that they were a classy bunch this year. The Syracuse boys won on the merits of team work. A few pointers, however, can be given to satisfy loyal fans that the Academy was not disgraced. Syracuse made a lucky short pass after three minutes of play which resulted in the only score of the game. Players of both sides found tackling runners a hard proposition because of the slimy field. The game was valuable in showing Coach Snavely who his four best backfield men are, and in proving to the players that they are not unbeatable. This fact will cause the team to work harder and more unitedly in the remaining hard games to be played.

Collision Causes Trouble.

A collision between two Ford trucks at Blanchard last Saturday afternoon caused considerable excitement there because of certain circumstances which led to the arrest of Grant Grassmire, of Milesburg and Lewis Brungard, of Marsh Creek. As soon as the accident happened the two men began removing the license plates from Grassmire's truck, underneath which was another set of license plates. It appears that Grassmire lost one of his tags about six months ago and the motor patrolmen knew this. It had not been replaced, and Brungart's plates had been placed on the Grassmire truck. The men were returning from a trip down the valley and were said to be traveling at a lively rate of speed when they struck the truck of Frank Bechdel and Leroy Masden, of Beech Creek. Both trucks were badly damaged. Motor Patrolman Champion of Lock Haven, was immediately notified, and quickly arrived on the scene, followed by Motor Patrolman Daniels, of Bellefonte. Grassmire and Brungard were brought before 'Squire Woodring in Bellefonte, on Monday evening. They waived a hearing and were placed under $500 bail for Court, charged with operating a vehicle with the license plates of another vehicle.

Use 1925 Tags Before Jan 1st.

The 1926 licenses plate will be orange and blue lettering, and under amendments made to the automobile code by the 1925 Legislature it will be permissible to use the new tags on and after December 15, 1925. This fifteen day provision will give owners of cars an opportunity to get their tags placed before the opening of the new year, and in the opinion of highway officials will call attention to late license seekers that the time for the old tags is about over. Another change provides for distinctive license plates for motor buses which are classified as those coming under the jurisdiction of the Public Service Commission law as common carriers and motor omnibuses which carry passengers but are not under the commission law. The former class is to have the letter O before the numbers and the omnibuses will have the letter H preceding the registration number.

"The Republican's" Cross-Word Puzzle

HOW TO SOLVE A CROSS-WORD PUZZLE

When the correct letters are placed in the white spaces this puzzle will spell words both vertically and horizontally. The first letter in each word is indicated by a number, which refers to the definition listed below the puzzle. Thus No. 1 under the column headed "horizontal" defines a word which will fill the white spaces up to the first black square to the right, and a number under "vertical" defines a word which will fill the white squares to the next black one below. No letters go in the black spaces. All words used are dictionary words, except proper names. Abbreviations, slang, initials, technical terms and obsolete forms are indicated in the definitions.

Stove Woodpecker's Nest

A constant, mysterious pecking that annoyed people in the Farmer's union office in Waldo, Kan., was finally located inside a heating stove that had been left standing, says the Topeka Capital. When the door was opened out popped a red-headed woodpecker, badly discolored from soot, but still game. The bird had evidently come down into the stove through the pipe, and the pecking noise came from his efforts to bore through to liberty. When released he flew to a telephone pole, got his bearings and then headed straightway for the nearest woods.

Marysville.

Last Thursday two car loads of old friends who were good for sore eyes and lonesome spirits, called on folks at this place. They were Mr. and Mrs. John A. Snyder and daughter, and Mr. and Mrs. Emanuel Snyder and daughter, all of Spring Mills. They had been up to Toe Hill picking cranberries, and altogether they had about 100 quarts which they said would do them for a year.

Mrs. Albert Mattern and two daughters and brother, Isaac Stine, and sister Annie Stine, all of Tyrone, were down at this place last week looking over their old home.

Mrs. R. H. Ghaner, of Tyrone, was a vititor at this place last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Miles Wry, of the Cross Roads spent a pleasant Sunday with Mrs. Wry's sister, Mrs. W. H. Ghaner.

Mrs David Behers and sister were visitors here for a few hours on Sanday, but would not linger long.

There were some of our friends from Altoona down last Thursday looking for the fish pond. We showed them where it was but gave them instructions not to fish until it rained as one can't fish without water.

Last Saturday morning the ground at this place was frozen so hard it would bear a person's weight. This cold snap came so suddenly it made one glad for their cast off clothes from last winter,

Miss Annie Gray has the weeds cut along the public road for a quarter of a mile on each side of her home.

Any one desiring winter apples can secure them from W. H. Ghaner, at this place. He can supply about 25 or 30 customers with any kind they like.

Oak Hall.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Houtz and son Bobby spent Sunday at the Walter Houtz home at Pleasant Gap.

Mr. and Mrs. George Houser and family, of State College, were recent visitors at the home of his mother, Mrs. Mary Houser at this place.

Misses Sarah and Eliza Gilliland made a business trip to Bellefonte on Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Johnstonbaugh, of Beech Creek, spent Sunday at the Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Zong home, at this place.

Wm. Folk and John Coble motored to Juniata county and spent the week-end with relatives there.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Blazer and family, of Centre Hall, were recent visitors at the Mr. and Mrs. Frank Reish home.

Mrs. Walter Korman is helping to care for her father David Snyder, at Boalsburg, who fell while picking apples.

Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Colyer of Linden Hall were recent visitors at the Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Zong home.

Mrs. Sarah Tibbens Dead.

Mrs. Sarah Tibbens, who had been in failing health for several months, passed away at the home of her son, Wilbur Tibbens, near the Fish Hatchery, at Pleasant Gap, on Tuesday. She was the daughter of George and Catherine Sellers Rumberger, and was 75 years of age. Her husband, William Tibbens died in 1912. Two sons survive: George, of Bellefonte, and Wilbur, with whom she made her home; also a brother, George Washington Rumberger, of Fleming. Funeral services will be held on Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Interment at Meyers cemetery in Buffalo Run valley.

Harry William Cummings Dead.

Harry William, 19 years old son of Arbor and the late Nora Stoner Cummings, died at Potters Mills on Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock, from typhoid fever. His mother passed away last July from the same disease. He is survived by his father and two sisters: Mrs. Ralph Tressler, of Tusseyville, and Freda, at home. Funeral services will be held on Friday morning. Interment at Zion Hill.

Benner M. Wilson Dead.

Benner H. Wilson died at his home at Beech Creek last Saturday from Bright's disease and heart trouble, after an illness of 6 months. He was born at Stormstown 67 years ago and was the son of William and Jane Gray Wilson. For a number of years he was a farmer in Half Moon valley but some time ago sold his farm and moved to Beech Creek. Funeral services were held on Monday and interment made at Beech Creek.

Edward Friedman Dead.

Edward Friedman, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Friedman, of Lock Haven, and a brother of Jacob Friedman, of Clarence, died at Tampa, Florida, last Saturday. He was 32 years of age, and had lived in Florida for a number of years. The body was brought to Lock Haven for interment.

Mrs. Ida A. Griffie Dead.

Mrs. Ida Griffie died at the Lock Haven hospital last Saturday afternoon, after an illness of three weeks from typhoid fever, which she contracted while on a visit to Snow Shoe. She was 55 years old and is survived by her husband and a daughter.

John Alexander Slack Dead.

John Alexander Slack died at the home of his niece, Miss Elizabeth Slack, at Potters Mills, on Sunday morning at 6 o'clock. He had been in failing health for some months. Recently he and Mrs. Slack closed their home at Centre Hall on account of ill health, and went to the home of their niece. He was aged 86 years, 1 month and 8 days. He was a son of Uriah and Isabella McEwen Slack and was born in Potter Township, where he spent most of his life. He was twice married, his first wife being Sarah Ellen Spangler, who passed away in 1890. He latter married Miss Annie Miller, of near Bellefonte, who survives, as do also a son and daughter of the first marriage: Charles W., of Centre Hall, and Mrs. Arabella Catherman, of Hartleton. Funeral services were held on Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the home of Miss Slack at Potters Mills. Interment was made in the Zion Hill cemetery. Rev. Delas Keener, of the Reformed church of Centre Hall, officiated, assisted by Rev. M. J. Kirkpatrick of the Presbyterian church.

Mrs. Solomon Poorman Dead.

Catherine Poorman, wife of Solomon Poorman, passed away at the Centre County hospital on Saturday morning at 10 o'clock. Last July she fell at her home on Bush Addition, and fractured her hip from which she never recovered. She was born in Benner Township 80 years ago. She was twice married, her first husband being Henry Garbrick, of Coleville, who preceded her to the grave. She later married Mr. Poorman, who survives with the following children: George Garbrick, of California; Mrs. Anna Wion, and Mrs. Ida Grove, of Bellefonte; Ira W. Poorman, of Brooklyn, N. Y; and Edward B. Poorman, of Ambridge, also a sister in California. Funeral services were held on Tuesday from the home, Rev. Mr. Arnold of the Lutheran Church officiating. Interment in the Union cemetery.

Mrs. Harvey Gheret Dead.

Mrs. Gheret, wife of Harvey Gheret, was found dead in bed at her home at Greenburr, Wednesday morning of last week. Death was believed due to heart trouble. She was 63 years of age. Deceased was born at Woodward, and resided in Sugar Valley for 40 years, but had lived at Greenburr for the past 10 years. She is survived by her husband, three sons and a daughter: Samuel, residing near Logan Mills; Robert, of Cohen, near Mifflinburg; Fred, of Tusseyville, and Mrs. Thomas Weber, of Tyrone; also by a brother and three sisters. Samuel Orndorf, Mrs. James Beck, and Aaron Stover, of Penn's Cave, and Mrs. Lincoln Confer, of Rosecrans. Funeral services were held on Sunday morning, with interment at Logan Mills.

John Curtin Dead.

John, son of Harry and Elizabeth Ardell Curtin, died at the Centre County hospital last Friday afternoon. Some time ago the lad underwent an operation for appendicitis at the local institution and had apparently recovered and was taken to his home at Curtin. About a week later complications developed that necessitated his return to the hospital. He was 4 years of age and is survived by a brother, Harry, Jr. Funeral services were held from the home on Sunday afternoon at 1:30. Interment was made at Curtin.

Mrs. William Keister Dead.

Mrs. Anna S. Keister, wife of William Keister, of Clintondale, died last Friday after a long illness from infirmities of age. She was 75 year old. She is survived by her husband, three sons: Charles, of Johnsonburg; Robert, of Tampa, Fla.; and Russell, of Hecla; also by four daughters: Mrs. George Walf, of Bellevue, O.; Mrs. Adam Moyer and Mrs. Clair Beck, of Clintondale, and Mrs. Charles Earon, of Ridgway. Five brothers and a sister also survive.

Mrs. Emma Kinkead Dead.

Mrs. Emma Kinkead, aged 79 years, died last Friday at Jersey Shore. She resided the greater part of her life at Philipsburg. She was a member of the Methodist church of Philipsburg. She is survived by these sons and daughters: R. B., and H. D., of Warren; O. B., of Clearfield; G. G., of Tyrone; L. L., of Philipsburg; A. R., Mrs. J. L. Devine and Mrs. T. W. Williams of Jersey Shore. Interment was made at Philipsburg.

Frank B. McClain Dead.

Frank B. McClain, former Lieutenant Governor of Pennsylvania, and one of the best known livestock dealers in the State, died at his home at Lancaster last Sunday. He had been ill several months, never having recovered from a stroke, which left him in a weakened condition, about a year ago. Mr. McClain frequently visited in Bellefonte and was well and favorably known here.

Samuel H. Lewis Dead.

Samuel H. Lewis died at his home at Punxsutawney last Thursday. He was born at Bald Eagle 55 years ago and spent the early years of his life there, then moving to Punxsutawney. He is survived by his wife and three children. Funeral services were held on Saturday at the Bald Eagle Methodist church. Interment was made in the cemetery nearby the church.

BANKING is a very old business. Older by many centuries than the Christain era. Many changes in method have taken place since the first bank started But the principles that should govern the business are unchanged.

These principles were well known to the ancients from whom we have much to learn. These are rapid days and call for some of the old prudence and conservatism.

—the same dependable remedy that over a period of more than fifty years has been found so reliable in the treatment of catarrh and diseases of catarrhal nature.

The outside of the package only has been altered. To facilitate packing and reduce breakage in shipping, the paper wrapper which has identified the Pe-ru-na bottle for many years has been displaced by a substantial pasteboard carton.

Pe-ru-na cannot be made any better. Three generations of users testify that Pe-ru-na is the best remedy in the world for catarrh and diseases of catarrhal origin.

The remedy our fathers and grandfathers used with so much satisfaction is still the standby for the ills of everyday in thousands of American homes.

The Nights were Torment

Now, thanks to Tanlac, Mrs. Bradley "really and truly" feels like a brand new woman!

Mrs. M. J. Bradley had come to the point where she could scarcely do her housework. Two years of suffering from indigestion had shattered her health. What little she ate caused stomach fermentation, gas bloating and pain. She lay awake through the long hours of the night and was tired out through the day.*

"That four bottles of Tanlac should correct my troubles when all other attempts had failed makes it seem altogether wonderful to me. Now I enjoy a fine appetite, good digestion and really and truly feel like a new woman. It is the ideal tonic."

*Authentic statement; address on request.

You don't have to wait long to see the results from Tanlac. That's the wonderful thing about this great tonic. It works fast.

Like a flash it goes to the seat of trouble. It cleans the blood and drives out the poisons that are tearing down your health. It tones up the stomach and aids digestion—gives you a real appetite for wholesome food.

Don't drag on from day to day putting off the time of reckoning. Start taking Tanlac this very day. Your druggist can supply you.

NOTE: For Constipation, take Tanlac Vegetable Pills, Nature's own harmless laxative.

FORMER "BAD BOY" NOW AT HEAD OF TRAINING SCHOOL

"Bill" Ireland Now Is Anxious to Give Others a Chance.

Milledgeville, Ga.—Five years ago Bill Ireland was convicted in one of the juvenile courts of being a "bad boy generally" and committed for an indefinite period to the Georgia Training School for Boys in this town, which is another way of saying that he was sent to the state reformatory, for that is what the school is.

Today Bill Ireland is superintendent of the school, having just been appointed to succeed Mrs. Orian Manson, deceased, who held that job and with Bill's assistance as her first lieutenant did it well, even if she was a woman dealing with delinquent youths. Bill Ireland, "bad boy generally" has changed in five years to William E. Ireland, a quiet business-like man, who is doing more than anybody else in the state to show delinquent youths that bucking the world and its codes and regulations will get them nowhere except into trouble, and that obedience to law is necessary to success and happiness.

He is doing this through sympathy. He was a bad boy and knows that you can't "beat" reform into that type. You've got to understand the boy, see his problems, pat him on the back and help him.

Believes in Boys.

"After all, there are not any bad boys in our school," says Bill. "They're just fellows who have been neglected and misunderstood. There is plenty of fine material in them all right. The thing is to get their confidence, make them know you're a real friend, then find out what's been the trouble with them.

"Most of these fellows never had a chance. They grew up in neglect with the hand of the world seemingly against them. When we get them here, clothe them right, feed them, teach them, and give them the sort of employment that makes them hale and hearty, they change in an amazing fashion."

None has changed more than Bill Ireland himself. He was sent to the institution by a court at Valdosta, Ga., and it seems that from the minute he set foot within its doors he swore to make good. The reason was that Mrs. Manson, then superintendent, put the situation to him in the right light, showed him where he was headed, and asked him to be a man instead of a bad boy.

Made Good Himself.

In a little while Bill was a "trusty," in a little bit more Mrs. Manson put him in charge of the farm at the school; and it wasn't long after that that he was her secretary and her first lieutenant. When she died the logical thing was to make Bill Ireland superintendent in her place. The trustees weren't actuated by sentiment in choosing Bill. They made the one-time "bad boy generally" superintendent because he was the man for the job.

He is working 15 hours a day now to make the training school the best of its sort in the country. One of the things he is after is more equipment for vocational training.

Faithful Terrier Saves Swiss Alpine Climber

Geneva.—A Swiss Alpine climber named Champod, while climbing with his fox terrier in the Diablerets mountains the other day, fell down a steep slope and broke his leg.

Unable to move and fearing he would be frozen to death, Champod decided to communicate with his relatives by means of his dog. He wrote a pencil note describing the accident and the spot on the mountain side where he was stranded.

He placed a note in his handkerchief, which he tied around the neck of the terrier and ordered it home. The animal seemed to understand and ran down.

A few hours later Champod's sons, who found the note, arrived with a stretcher and the victim was carried to the valley.

Will Play Golf in Twenty Countries

'Golfing Skipper' to Conduct Unique World Cruise.

New York.—We have often heard of singing skippers, literary skippers, poetical skippers, musical skippers and skippers who have become famous as doctors and scientists, but we have rarely heard of a skipper who ranks with some of the best golf amateurs.

The "golfing sea captain," R. G. Latta, is well known on the Atlantic as a man to be feared on the golf links and there is hardly a port which he has entered where he has not played the ancient and honorable game of Scotland.

Captain Latta was not originally intended for a seafaring life, having been placed in an office as a youth until his twentieth year when he went to sea on a sailing vessel of which his uncle was the master. After sailing round the world for nine years, playing golf at every port he could, and getting his master's certificate, he joined the fleet of the Canadian Pacific railway in 1905 and has since then carried that company's flag the farthest north of any of his fellow officers to Archangel, and the farthest south, around Cape Horn.

Captain Latta, the "Golfing Skipper."

Rushes for the Links.

During the past two winters when he piloted his steamship on cruises through the West Indies, he was just as enthusiastic as the tourists to go ashore, not so much to sightsee as to try the local links and pit himself against the local stars, and many a local star succumbed to his prowess with the clubs.

Golf has probably made Scotland as well known as her famous bards, her fighting chiefs and clans, her pipers and her plaids, and it is only proper that, when the steamship Empress of Scotland leaves New York next December on a 129-day cruise of the world, carrying with her the Round the World Golf club made up of tourists who have been invited by practically all the golf clubs in the 20 countries to be visited to match their skill against the local champions, Captain Latta should be in command.

Traveling the seven seas, strange races, unusual customs, as well as unfamiliar caddies, will greet the golfing skipper and his golf enthusiasts.

Plan Unique Cruise.

Imagine the skipper and his touring golfers teeing off at Naples, with Vesuvius for a background; at Cairo, where the links are the sands of the desert and where one wears tennis shoes, with the Sphinx afar off as a "silent gallery"; in India, with gorgeously covered elephants, your carriers to the links, on the side lines and some golden-topped mosque in the distance; at Batavia, on the Island of Java, that mysterious country and subtropical paradise of the romances of Joseph Conrad, the late seafaring novelist, where the gallery will be made up of natives attired in a riot of Batik silks; at Manila, the queen city of "The Pearl of the Orient"; in China and Japan, where 'rickishas carry one to the green and the setting is either a pagoda or cherry-blossomed trees; at Honolulu to the distant music of ukuleles and the odor of pineapples carried on the breeze from far-off groves, and then to try the golf links of sun-kissed California, of Panama and of Havana.

The uniqueness of this golfing cruise around the world with a golfing skipper has never been attempted, and when the Empress of Scotland pulls into her dock at New York next spring the story will be told of how at Delhi, up near the Himalaya mountains, either Captain Latta or one of the tourists, holed out in three, beating the local maharajah, who probably played with gem-studded clubs and was attended by silken and golden-robed caddies.

Earth Round, Monk Said Long Before Columbus

Oxford, England.—Had Christopher Columbus known as much of English theological literature as he knew of navigation he might have saved himself a deal of pains in his effort to prove the world was round. He might have consulted a musty tome recently dug out of the dust of Oxford's hoary libraries, a "Metrical Lives of the Saints," written by a monk at the end of the Thirteenth century, in which it is set forth that:

"As an appeal the urthe is round, so that evermo
Half of the urthe the sonne bischyneth, hou so hit evere go."

He would have been told that the moon itself gives no light, that the earth is bigger than the moon, and the sun 165 times bigger than the earth.

VENDETTALAND IS LAND OF CONTRASTS AND MYSTERY

Corsica Is Full of Interest to the Tourist.

Washington.—Corsica, Mediterranean island, in the neighborhood of which France lost five brave seafaring airmen, in a disaster comparable to the loss of the PN-9 No. 1, is described as follows in a communication to the National Geographic society.

"Submerged by wave after wave of history and conquest, home of a race full of passion but free from low crime, the scented isle south of the Cote d'Azur offers a distinctive reward to those who leave the rush and display of the continent to visit vendettaland.

"Corsica, like every other country, is a land of contrasts. But more than most, it is the land of paradox. Behind the striking beauty of the island, concealed beneath the commonplace exteriors of the people, there is a mystery, a contrary quality which first escapes observation and later intrudes everywhere. Probably nowhere is a generalization more likely to be true and false at the same time.

"One goes to Corsica, as did Boswell's friend, expecting to find every bandit a menace. He remains to find the man with the gun the most unromantic of mortals. Melodrama heroes have accomplished more with the glitter of a silver spoon held revolver-wise than the most Tartarinesque of Corsicans attempt when loaded to the belt. Yet personal encounter between natives is still a commonplace.

"Corsica, where women go safely alone by night and gendarmes travel in pairs by day, where there are hundreds of bridges and no rivers, where everyone expects the visitor to pay verbal tribute to 'Kalliste' (Most Beautiful) and few can name the mountains in whose shadow they were born!

"Banditry is still a byword and thievery is abhorred. The innkeepers boast of what grand things they would do if there were more tourists, and neglect the few they have. The sun gives the land its charm; and the snow, its beauty and health. The roads are blocked by horses, mules and donkeys, few of them laden, and the automobile, even for the single traveler, offers the cheapest means of transportation. The perfume of the maquis and the smells of the streets are alike indescribable."

Michigan Breeds Herd of Pure Albino Deer

Detroit, Mich.—On Grand island, a game refuge in Lake Superior, is a herd of partial and pure albino deer—the result of breeding from Albinos originally taken by capture. Men have previously bred albinism into various animals, as the white rats and mice, and domestic rabbits, but this experiment constitutes the first attempt at such selective breedings with any of the large mammals.

That which has been accomplished on Grand island, and with comparative ease, is difficult of accomplishment in a state of nature where the albino is cruelly conspicuous and speedily hunted down by man or the hunting beasts.

There have been occasional reports of albino deer in Oregon. Always the white coat proves the animal's undoing. There is no rest until it is slain.

Revive Their Old-Time Hunting

Above are shown Crow Indians watching for a sight of the buffalo herd in the spectacular mimic hunt in Yellowstone National park, in which the days of their fathers were revived.

Father, 42, Mother, 41; They Have 10 Children

Attleboro, Mass.—Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Sheldon, of Broggs Corner district, are claiming records for family honors. Mr. and Mrs. Sheldon were married when he was sixteen and his wife fifteen, and they have ten children now, at the age of forty-two and forty-one. None of the children has ever had a day's illness, and only once has the doctor been called to the Sheldon house, except to assist the stork, that occasion being when Joseph, Jr., the eldest, stuck a fish hook in his hand.

Keep Yorktown Liberty Shrine

Historians Plan Golf Course and Memorials on Washington's Battlefield.

Washington.—To restore and preserve the battlefield of Yorktown, where Cornwallis surrendered to Washington, as an international shrine of liberty is the purpose of a movement directed by three Yorktown organizations, the Historical society, the Forum and the Country club.

The movement has received the support of notables, including President Coolidge and his royal highness the duke of York, the latter having accepted the honorary presidency of the Yorktown forum. Included in the list are cabinet members, senators, representatives, Vice President Dawes, General Pershing and other high military officials, governors, ambassadors and other diplomats, Stanley Baldwin, the prime minister of England; Field Marshal Haig, Sir Auckland Geddes, Sir Esme Howard, Lady Nancy Astor, Lord Bing of Vimy, the marshals of France and the descendants of Lafayette, Rochambeau and DeGrasse, who served at Yorktown with Washington.

Yorktown possesses a vital interest to Americans. General Pershing, in a foreword to a book, "The Glory of Yorktown," which is being circulated by the promoters, says that the fundamental proposition of the sovereignty of the people was made secure by the American revolution, and the struggle for national freedom, won at Yorktown, inaugurated a universal movement for national independence which spread over the western hemisphere and resulted in the establishment of twenty independent states in Latin America.

"This epochal movement," says General Pershing, "later spread to Europe and even to Asia, terminating the age-long struggle between democracy and autocracy, and bringing a new concept of popular government to the old nations of the world. Yorktown was one of the decisive battles of the world, and marked a turning in human history, the effects of which have become worldwide."

Dates Back Three Centuries.

Yorktown was patented in 1621 and the town of York was laid out in 1691. It is situated in the historic peninsula of Virginia. Near by is Jamestown, where the first English settlement on the western hemisphere was made, in 1607, and not far distant is the site of the famous Indian village of Powhatan. Close at hand, too, is Williamsburg, seat of William and Mary college, which was founded in 1693, and but a few miles away are Fortress Monroe, guarding the entrance to Chesapeake bay, and Newport News, Hampton and Norfolk. Within a short radius are the birthplaces of seven presidents of the United States—Washington, Jefferson, Madison, Monroe, Harrison, Tyler, and Wilson.

Every school child knows of the important place Yorktown and its siege occupy in the history of the Revolutionary war, but not all know the spot that marked events in three other wars. There was important military action there during the war of 1812, when the British captured Yorktown on their way to Washington; during the Civil war the Confederates under General Magruder and General Johnson occupied the old Cornwallis fortifications when the Union under McClellan marched up the peninsula to attack them, and during the recent World war Yorktown was an American naval base.

The Yorktown Historical society has established headquarters in Yorktown to receive visitors, distribute explanatory literature and deliver lectures on the battlefield and the historic facts.

World Assembly Proposed.

It is planned to expand the Yorktown forum into a world assembly and international center comparable with The Hague, Brussels and Geneva. A classical temple is to be erected to house the forum and there will be closely connected units interpreting in symbol historical eras and epochs in the development of democracy. A perpetual endowment is to be provided.

The forum is affiliated with the Marshall-Wythe-Monroe school of government, citizenship and international relations of the College of William and Mary, and until the forum buildings are completed its sessions will be held either in the customs house at Yorktown, the oldest customs house in the United States, or in the National Memorial auditorium on the college campus.

The function of the Country club is to maintain the battlefield of Yorktown and to provide housing accommodations and recreational facilities for visitors. A temporary clubhouse has been erected and an 18-hole golf course completed. In constructing the golf course, the underbrush that concealed the redoubts, entrenchments and parallels of the famous battlefield has been cleared away and it is possible for visitors to inspect them for the first time since shortly after the Revolutionary period.

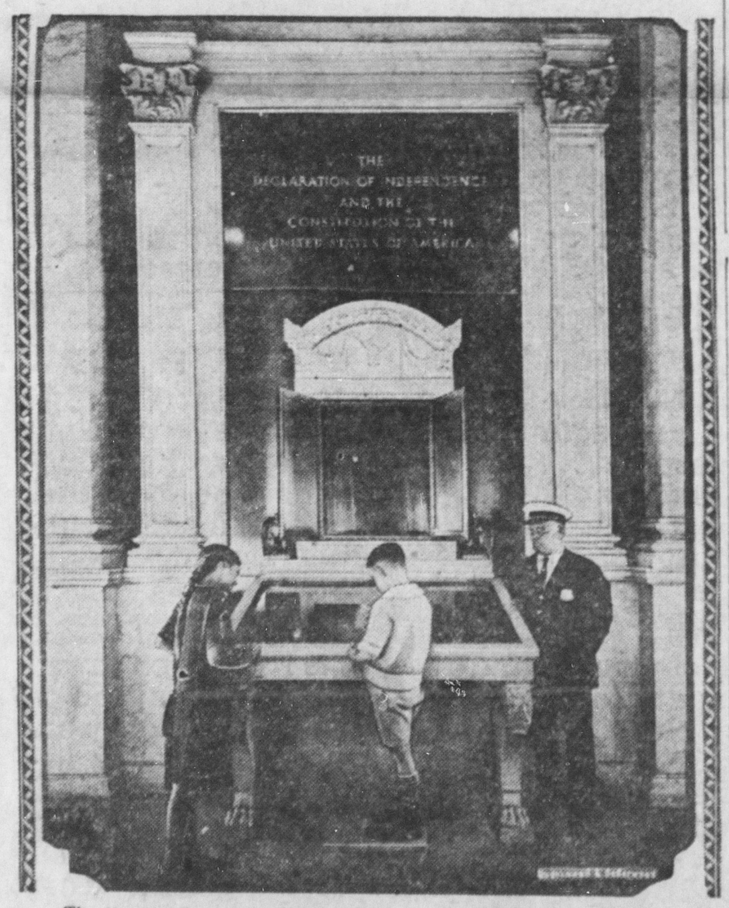
History of the Battle.

Yorktown, for all its military importance, by the way, was not a bloody battle ground, the allied American and French losses being only about 300 killed, wounded and missing, and the British losses about 550. Washington, when he took over the command from Lafayette, had a force far superior to that of Lord Cornwallis. He had approximately 9,000 Americans; there were 7,000 French under Rochambeau, and in addition, there was the French fleet of Count de Grasse, numbering 28 ships of the line with nearly 4,000 infantry on board. The siege was opened on October 9 and eight days later Cornwallis proposed to surrender.

October 19 Major General O'Hara led out the whole British army from the trenches into the open field, where, in the presence of allied ranks of France and America, 7,247 English and Hessian soldiers laid down their arms, delivered their standards and became prisoners of war.

The second siege of Yorktown, during the Civil war, likewise found McClellan in command of the Union army with a greatly superior force numbering 112,392 men as compared with not to exceed 50,000 Confederates. McClellan delayed his assault, however, and the Confederates evacuated Yorktown and fell back to Williamsburg on the way to Richmond.

Constitution Is 138 Years Old



The Constitution of the United States was ratified by a convention of the states on September 17, 1787—138 years ago. The original document is now kept in a special glass case in the Library of Congress and is daily visited by hundreds of citizens.

Man Dives 2,600 Feet to Death at Yosemite Falls

Yosemite, Cal.—Evidences of a 2,600-foot suicide leap by Theodore Jackowski of San Francisco were found when human bones were found by park rangers at the foot of Yosemite falls.

The suicide was first indicated when hikers recently found at the top of the falls a coat in the pocket of which was a note and a will scribbled in pencil, signed by Jackowski and dated June 7.

The will said Jackowski had loaned Arthur Schwerin of Mayfield, Cal., $1,200 in 1921 and instructed a Redwood City man to have Schwerin pay his funeral expenses and give the balance of the money, except for a small amount, to the Veterans' hospital at Menlo Park, Cal.

Eats Without Hands

Cobalt, Ont.—When both his hands were mutilated recently by the premature explosion of a dynamite cap, Jim Gallagher, a prospector, alone in his cabin some miles from Lerder lake, was compelled to subsist two days on what scraps of food he could pick up from the table with his mouth. The explosion left him helpless until his plight was discovered and he was taken to Kirkland Lake for treatment.

SUMMONS BY PLANE

Mrs. Henry Giastris of New York hired an airplane and dropped down on her husband who was returning from Europe on the steamship Grasse, and served him with a summons for contempt for alleged failure to pay back alimony.

Telegrapher Facing Death Stops Trains

Pittsburgh, Pa.—Facing death from a sudden illness, Kavanagh Jacobs, night telegraph operator for the Pittsburgh-Lake Erie railroad at Monongahela, near here, threw on the red signals to stop all trains a few minutes before he fell across his key, dead from an attack of acute indigestion. Trains on the division were halted for more than an hour until another operator could be sent to man the wire.

Jacob's body was found at his desk by police who went to the station in response to an appeal from divisional headquarters of the railroad to investigate the failure of the operator to answer his call.

Earlier in the night Jacobs had summoned a physician, but had declined to leave his post.

LONG SLAYER HUNT ENDS IN CEMETERY

Detective Waits Six Years, but Lands Suspect.

New York.—When Giuseppe Rizzo was shot dead in a gang fight at Maynard, Mass., six years ago, local police were told a man known as Giuseppe Cipollo had been among those who fired on him. Unable to get a picture of Cipollo to distribute among departments about the country, the police manufactured one. A week ago detectives received word that Cipollo was a son-in-law of Gatano Caterasso of Brooklyn. A detective proceeded to watch the house. Fate played into his hands in gruesome fashion, for Caterasso died, and all relatives by blood and marriage were summoned.

Mourners passed in and out of the house, all being observed by the detective. None looked like the man in the touched-up picture. Then came the funeral next morning and the detective mingled with the mourners, both in the house and in the church. Still he did not see his man.

The detective went with the mourners to Holy Cross cemetery. Every one thought the officer was one of the deceased man's friends. Finally, as the members of the family knelt for an instant above the open grave the detective saw a man about forty years old who, except for a swarthy complexion and traces of worry, was the counterpart of the picture.

As the mourners left, the detective arrested this man. "Yes, I am Giuseppe Cipollo," the man said later in the police station. "I was there when Rizzo was shot. I had a gun and I fired some shots myself, but it was not one of my bullets that killed him."

The police say another member of the band which shot Rizzo was arrested years ago and is serving a prison term in Massachusetts. Cipollo is being held for extradition to Massachusetts.

Asks to Be Stabbed to Prevent Burial Alive

London.—Sir George Greenwood, presiding recently at a meeting of the London Society for the Prevention of Premature Burial, said he had given directions to those who would be his executors to plunge a stiletto into his heart after his death so as to make certain of it.

He added that a schoolmate of his, who became a great surgeon, insisted the stabbing process be carried out as a precaution.

Sir George declared he had no faith in the present so-called modern methods of certifying death.

Miss Emily Akes, honorary secretary of the society, said one of the best-known men in England had once been placed in a casket as dead, and when about to be buried was found to be quite well and alive. He had lived for some twenty years afterward.

Doomed Couple Unable to Say Farewell Before Death

Budapest, Hungary.—With five minutes to say good-by before their death, allowed by the court, Mitzi Lederer and her husband, Gustav, a former lieutenant, choking with anguish and blinded by tears, were unable to say a single word. They had been convicted of the murder and dismemberment of the owner of a sausage factory, Frank Kudelka, who was visiting the couple in a suburb of Budapest. The two embraced in a final meeting while the presiding judge held a watch. "You have five minutes," he said. "Four—three—two—one, and now no more time to bid each other good-by." The man and wife were parted and immediately executed.

Robs for Lollypops

St. Louis, Mo.—Fred Bringri gives St. Louis clear title to the youngest bandit on record.

Bringri, eleven, imbued with an ambition to emulate the exploits of the Cukoo gang and Egan Rats, procured a pistol and proceeded to rob a confectionery store. A woman, Mrs. Rose Harris, was in charge.

"Stick 'em up," commanded the infant robber bold.

Mrs. Harris complied.

Police found Freddy on a street corner sucking a lollypop he had purchased with part of his loot.

Record of Ste. Lucy Old in Church Annals

Ste. Lucy was a native of Syracuse and sought in marriage by a young nobleman of that city. She, however, had decided to devote her life to God and refused him.

Enraged, he accused her to the governor of professing Christian doctrines, and she was persecuted. A curious legend regarding Ste. Lucy is that her lover complaining that her eyes haunted him day and night, she cut them out of her head and sent them to him, begging him to leave her to her devotions. It is added that heaven, to reward her, gave her new eyes more beautiful than ever.

She is generally represented bearing a platter on which are two eyes, and her intercession is frequently sought by those suffering with eye troubles.—Chicago Journal.

MRS. WM. BUTTS WAS VERY SICK

Gives Full Credit to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for Remarkable Recovery

Wellston, O.—"I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to make me strong. I was troubled with my back and sides hurting me till I could not do my work, and whenever I caught cold it made me irregular. Since I have taken the Vegetable Compound my side and back don't bother me and I can do my housework and care for my children now, where before I did not feel like doing anything or going around. After my first child was born about four years ago I saw an advertisement in the paper about the Vegetable Compound. I knew it would help me, but I was afraid to try it because people said it would help you to have children and I knew I was having children fast enough. But I thought if it would help me it would be better to have a whole house full of children and have good health. I became stronger from taking it and my husband says I look like a live woman instead of a dead one. When Spring comes I am going to take your Blood Medicine as I am very thin. I will answer letters from any woman who wishes to ask about your medicine."—Mrs. WILLIAM BUTTS, Wellston, Ohio.

MEMBERS OF EIGHTY TRIBES ATTEND ONE INDIAN SCHOOL

Haskell Institute May Safely Lay Claim to Being 100 Per Cent American.

Lawrence, Kan.—Haskell institute may set down its claim to honor as "100 per cent American." For only true Americans may enter here.

The largest of the government's Indian schools, already opened for its fall term, Haskell institute last winter drew 1,040 American Indian girls and boys from nearly eighty tribes. From Key West to Ketchikan they came, and from Yakima to Yonkers.

Twenty-eight states sent quotas of students to Haskell last year.

Oklahoma's delegation numbered 333, almost one-third of the student enrollment. Yet her neighbor state to the south, Texas, had but one representative in the student body. Kansas was second in numbers with 104, and South Dakota next with 103. Alaska was represented by a single student of the Eyak tribe.

Outnumbering any single Indian tribe are the Sioux, whose 119 members here came from five middle-western states. Cherokees and Potawatomies made up the third largest tribal delegation.

The Chippewas came from the greatest area. They had roved the continent. Then there are Apache and Mojave, Navajo and Papago, Hopi and Piute from the Southwest; Bannock and Nez Perce, Flathead and Shoshone from the Northwest; Kickapoo and Sac and Fox, Chippewa and Ottawa, Wyandotte and Winnebago from the Middle West, and from Oklahoma and the South came Chickasaw and Choctaw, Creek and Cherokee.

When father has to holler in putting over his argument with the family, it is the only way he can.

Girl Scales Peak but, Oh, the Price

Yosemite National Park, Cal.—Miss Tecla Van Austin, of San Francisco, went forth this summer with one ambition; one slightly worn hiker's pick; one new climber's suit, and she returned with one record all her own; one pair of knickers, seatless; one pair of arms, skinned, and an oversupply of satisfaction.

Her ambition was to climb Grizzly peak. She did that. She wore out all her stockings, sundry other items of apparel and one guide. The guide gave up and returned, but Miss Austin went on until she had planted a dusty heel on the summit of the peak. After that she slid down the incline and completed the damage to her outfit.

She was the second woman to make the climb, but returning from the summit, she stepped in a baby avalanche and shattered all speed records for descent to the base of the peak.

Knowing what not to do is also a means to success.

CONCLUSION OF COURT.

Jury Awards Verdicts for A. E. Schad and Anna W. Keichline.

Before Court adjourned last week a jury in the case of T. R. Hamilton vs. A. E. Schad rendered a verdict in favor of the defendant for $260 92.

Anna W. Keichline vs. Decker Brothers, to recover for tracings, sketchings and blue prints for a garage never built and also the Decker arage in Bellefonte. The plaintiff claimed a large sum, and the defendants admitted they owed the plaintiff, but not the sum sued for, something like $3000. The case was on trial from Thursday afternoon and verdict rendered on Saturday morning in favor of the plaintiff for $850.

John C. Marks vs. Penn Mutual Fire Insurance Company of Chester County.

Bald Eagle, Nittany and Brush Valley Turnpike Road Company vs. Centre County.

Millheim Turnpike Road Company vs. Centre County.

Official Football Schedule Printing Agency, vs. Hugh B. Wagner.

H. H. Fye vs. David Chambers.

Toner A. Hugg vs. Toner A. Hugg, individually, and as Administrator of the estate of Emaline Hugg.

George E. and Mary E. Harper, vs. G. D. and Myrtle Morrison.

B. H. S. Wins Another Game.

In a driving, stinging gale that had its origin somewhere in the region of the North Pole, Millheim lost a game of football to the local lads last Saturday by the score of 26 to 0. Numbed hands were the direct cause of several fumbles and poor handling of the ball and a high wind made kicking and passing a matter of chance. There were opportunities aplenty for either side to recover loose balls and snare wandering passes, but many of these went unheeded. On several occasions the spectators were uncertain whether they were watching a football game or a game of soccer. The Red and White played the most consistent football but they lost chances to score more points because of fumbles or lack of punch at the critical moment. Coach Riden's team was crippled through the absence of nearly one third of his squad who were with the State troops. The combinations he had worked together were broken up and this naturally affected the smoothness of his machine. The huskies from Millheim were playing the game every minute, trying to smash through the line and waiting for the break to come which the weather seemed to promise. Their attack was often smothered before it got started and their forward passes were generally thrown to the world at large. They had the heavier team but were not as well schooled in the fundamentals of the game as their opponents. Waite scored two touchdowns for Bellefonte, while Best and Moerschbacher each scored one. B. H. S. scored once in each quarter.

Bellefonte vs. Tyrone.

After a lapse of two years Bellefonte and Tyrone will again resume athletic relations this Saturday when the latter football team will attempt to down the local High school eleven. Two years ago Tyrone handed the Red and White its only defeat of that season and the sting still remains. This is the first hard game on the B. H. S. schedule and a victory will mean a lot to the team. Coach Riden has been working his boys hard this week in prepsration for the game. With the return of the troop, this squad is once more at its full strength. The combinations that have worked together all season were broken up for a week and it has been necessary to readjust them. Tyrone is confident of repeating its victory and expectr to do so by a bigger score than the last game. Bellefonte will have a team on the field that will fight every minute. It will be a real test for the Red and White, for if the boys can establish a defense that will stop the fast Tyrone backs they are assured of a commendable record during the present gridiron season. The remainder of the schedule which includes Altoona, Yeagertown, Jersey Shore, Huntingdon, Juniata and Johnstown, is the hardest in years that a local eleven has been called upon to face. The game will be played at Hughes Field and will start at 2.30. Come and give your school some support.

State Lost to Georgia Tech.

Penn State was defeated by Georgia Tech in a closely contested football game at New York last Saturday. State held their opponents until the last quarter, when the wind favored the southern players. The final score was 16 to 7.
